President’s Message

I extend my warm greetings, for the season ahead to all the members of the Indian Sociological Society. I am happy that the second E-Newsletter of ISS that mainly gives an update on the activities of the 44th All India Sociological Conference held at St. Philomena’s College, Mysuru from December 27-29, 2018 is ready for being placed before you. The Conference activities that were initiated with the registration process on 26th of December itself came to a close on the 29th with the finalsession in which all the conveners of the Research Committees presented the reports of their respective RCs. Besides the inaugural and closing sessions, the three day conference was marked by three plenary sessions; 4 parallel sessions of the 28 Research Committees of the ISS, each of one and a half hours duration; the meetings of the General Body, Conveners of Research Committees, Managing Committee of ISS and Regional Associations and a poster exhibition. The Professor RadhakamalMukerjee Memorial Lecture and Professor M.N. Srinivas Memorial Lecture were also organised during the Conference. Life time Achievement Awards were presented to Prof. M.N. Karna and Prof. Gail Omvedt and Dr SubhasisSahoo was conferred the Professor M.N. Srinivas Memorial Prize. A report by the Organizing Secretary of the Conference Prof. M. Raphael which is given in this Newsletter contains all the details of the Conference proceedings.

The 44th AISC saw the participation of nearly 1000 persons. The participants, drawn from across the country, included faculty, research scholars, and post-graduate & under-graduate students of sociology and those interested in the discipline. As many as 700+ papers were presented through the 28 Research Committees. It was heartening to see that the Conference provided an opportunity to young researchers and students to engage in an academic dialogue with seniors in the profession. The Book Exhibition in which leading publishers of social science ‘knowledge store houses’ participated was another meeting point for the conference participants.

I wish to place on record my appreciation and thanks to the Organizing Secretary Prof. M. Raphael, the Organizing Committee of the 44th Conference, the Management of St. Philomena’s College for sharing their space and allowing us to use their infrastructural facilities and human resource, the Vice-Chancellor of the University of Mysore, the members of the Managing Committee & conveners of Research Committees and all members of ISS & conference participants, sponsors and all my colleagues, students and friends for their wonderful support which made this Conference a memorable event.

The membership base of ISS has been constantly widening. During 2018, 242 Life Members, 498 Ordinary Members and 02 international Members joined the ISS. The Managing Committee of the ISS has met thrice during 2018, and the Research Committees twice. The ISS and its RCs have been collaborating with departments in universities in different parts of the country for organizing academic events. RC 10 of ISS Gender Studies collaborated with the Centre for Women’s Studies, Bangalore University in the organisation of a two day ICSSR sponsored national seminar on “Vision for an Inclusive Society: A Feminist Perspective” on November 15 & 16, 2018. This initiative by ISS to involve academic institutions in its outreach programmes is gaining momentum and it is hoped that in the times ahead we could facilitate the organisation of academic programmes that could result in meaningful exchange of sociological knowledge in different parts of the country.

I convey my greetings to Prof. D.R. Sahu, Secretary, ISS and Editor, E-Newsletter on the occasion of the release of the second E-Newsletter of ISS. My thanks are due to the Editorial Committee. I thank Ms. Boinu Vaiphei for her diligent work with the Newsletter.

R. Indira
President, ISS

From The Editors’ Desk

Greetings to all!

The conference was quite remarkable and all members who have attended the conference must have had a wonderful experience. I would like to thank the Organizers at St. Philomena’s for hosting such a wonderful conference and also would like to acknowledge all the members who had participated. The success of the conference was not just because of the Organizers or the office Bearers of the Society but because of the active participation of the Research Committee members and its Conveners. I request all members of the ISS to join Research Committees and actively participate in order to enhance the Society to nurture and train young upcoming Sociologist, who will be the future generation Sociologist of our Country.

I would also like to inform all members of the ISS that we will soon be having a payment gateway link to our website for the convenience of members to pay fees online.

This issue of the newsletter carries mainly about the 44th AISC in Mysuru, Reports of the RC’s and Abstracts received by the RC’s.

D.R Sahu
Secretary, ISS
Report on the 44th All India Sociological Conference

The 44th All India Sociological Conference of the Indian Sociological Society (ISS) was organized by St. Philomena’s College (Autonomous), Mysore at their premises from December 27-29, 2018. The national conference, an annual event of the Indian Sociological Society was being organized in the state of Karnataka for the fourth time, and in the city of Mysore the second time. The first was organized at St. Aloysius College, Mangalore (20th ISS Conference-1993), the second at Karnataka University, Dharwad (33rd ISS Conference-2007) the third at Karnataka State Open University, Mysuru (39th ISS Conference-2013) and the 44th conference is the fourth conference of ISS organized in the state of Karnataka.

The Indian Sociological Society considered the second largest body of professional sociologists in the world has 4668 Life members and 564 ordinary and student members joined ISS during the current year. Started in 1951, the ISS has its central office located in New Delhi, but its academic and outreach activities are spread all over the country. Its journal “Sociological Bulletin” is one of the most widely accessed sources of sociological knowledge on India, and the ISS has a global presence through its publications and conferences organized in different parts of the country.

St. Philomena’s College, Mysuru is one of the premier institutions of higher education in the city of Mysore, known for its tradition of promoting an academic culture that supports both faculty and student development. Its distinguished alumni are spread across the country and in different parts of the world. The college has grown in strength both in terms of the number of academic programmes that it has been offering, and its efforts at quality enhancement. With its well-maintained physical infrastructure, a pro-active management that gives priority to knowledge enrichment and up gradation and committed human resource, St. Philomena’s College provided the right socio-educational setting for organizing an event of the magnitude of an ISS conference.

The conference activities began on 26th December, the previous day itself. Besides the registration process that was set in motion at 2.00 P.M on the pre-conference day itself. Meetings of the conveners of the 28 Research Committees and the Managing Committee of the Indian Sociological Society were also held on the previous day as per the ISS tradition. Both the meetings began with the members of the Organizing Committee welcoming the RC conveners and MC members with the traditional Mysore style. The deliberations of the meetings went on till about 9.30 P.M. The food court opened with dinner being served to all the conference participants, guests and hosts on the pre-conference night.

The inaugural ceremony of the conference was held on 27-12-2018 in the Indoor Stadium of St. Philomena’s College. The stadium with a 1000 seater capacity was almost full. The programme began with the rendering of the state anthem ‘Naadageethe’ by Amma Ramachendra, Ningaraju and friends. Prof. M. Raphael, Organizing Secretary of the Conference welcomed the conference participants, invited speakers, media, students, faculty and all the guests. The inaugural address was delivered by Prof. Margaret Abraham, Immediate Past President of International Sociological Association and Professor of Sociology, Hofstra University, New York. In her address Prof. Abraham brought out the need to challenge the dominant conceptual frameworks, methodologies, pedagogies and practices vis-à-vis those on the margins. She called for using an intersectional lens in linking research and action from the margins and gave a brief outline of ‘Global Mapping of Sociologists for Social Inclusion’, an imitative of the International Sociological Association for enabling collaborations between sociologists from across the world for contouring a contextual global sociology.
Prof. G. Hemantha Kumar, Vice Chancellor, University of Mysore, in his guest address, conveyed the University’s appreciation and support for the conference, that was actually a ‘twin celebration’ for the University of Mysore, because the conference marked the completion of a 100 year journey both for the University and the discipline of sociology in the University of Mysore. He also referred to the stellar role, the benevolent rulers of the Mysore Royal Dynasty had played in bringing social justice to those in the margins through their policy of reservation and proactive support for upholding the rights of those deprived of access to society’s opportunities for achieving upward mobility.

Rev. Dr. K. A. William, the Bishop of Mysore in his address brought out the need for a humanist approach to address issues of inequality in society. Referring to the role of academic disciplines in creating socially relevant and sensitive knowledge, he stressed on the need for academia to be sensitive to the problems and challenges that were bring posed by destructive forces and called for a knowledge base that created good human beings. In her presidential address, Prof. R. Indira, President, ISS delineated the need for adopting alternate discourse models in sociological research and teaching, and spoke on the relevance of using narratives as a tool in creating alternate discourse paradigms. Dr. Ruth Shanta Kumari, Principal, St. Philomena’s College and Rev. Dr. Bernard Prakash Barnis, Rector, St.Philomena’s College were present on the occasion.

In the inaugural function two of India’s most senior sociologists, Prof. M.N. Karna and Prof. Gail Omvedt were conferred the Life Time Achievement Award by ISS for their significant contributions to the growth and development of the discipline of sociology in India and for enriching sociological knowledge. The Professor M.N. Srinivas Memorial Prize was awarded to Dr. Subhasis Sahoo from the Department of Sociology, Central University of Allahabad. The inaugural program concluded with a vote of thanks by Prof. D.R Sahu, Secretary of Indian Sociological Society.
The first plenary session of the conference titled Feminist Intersections, Women, Genders and Masculinities in Contemporary India was held in the afternoon of Day 1. The session which was chaired by Prof. Abha Chauhan from Jammu University had presentations from Dr. Gita Chadha, University of Mumbai, Dr. Janaki Abraham, University of Delhi, Dr. Anurekha Chari Wagh, University of Hyderabad and Dr. Sumesh Shivannand, Tezpur University. The speakers in this session addressed such issues as analysis of how the intersections between sociology and feminism are producing the discourse on patriarchy and gender; exploration of the way caste, gender and kinship are co-constituted; engagement with pedagogy and mentoring, in the context of knowledge creation and dissemination and a reflexive thinking with feminisms in conversation with sexualities and masculinities that could be offered to sociologies and sociologists.

Since the practice of ISS is to have all papers submitted for presentation through the 28 research committees of Indian Sociological Society, four slots of the conference time, each of 1 ½ hours duration are set apart for this purpose. The RC sessions were scheduled on December 27 (1 session of 1 ½ hours) and December 28 (1 session of 2 hours; 1 session of 1 ½ hours and 1 session of 1 hour). In all 6 hours of the total conference time were allotted for presentation of papers. Nearly 800 papers were presented through the 28 RCs during the conference. Some research committees had organized memorial lectures in honour of pioneers of Sociology who had made significant contributions to the growth of the discipline. These included the Prof. A.R. Desai Memorial Lecture by RC 17, Prof. D.N. Dhanagare Memorial Lecture by the RC 03 and Prof. C. Parvathamma Memorial Lecture by RC 09. There were also invited lectures and panel discussions organized by some RCs. The P.G. Block of St. Philomena’s college, with its 4 floors and class rooms fitted with multimedia housed all the research committee sessions. The fact that all the RC sessions were held in one building, which made movement easy and saved time that otherwise would have been spent on moving from one place to another if the RC sessions were organized in different buildings, was one of the high points of the conference. Certificates of presentation, sponsored by the Alumni Association of the Sociology Students of the University of Mysore, were distributed immediately with certification from the RC convener. The conference Book of Abstracts which was published with the support of a benevolent grant given by the University of Mysore contained all the abstracts of papers presented in the Conference (RC wise). The Book of Abstracts was distributed along with the conference bag sponsored by Sulabh International Social Service Organization and notepad and pen sponsored by the Karnataka Sociology Association. M/s Rangarao and Sons, the well-known manufacturers of incense sticks from Mysuru gave packets of incense sticks for all the conference participants.

On the first day of the conference, Professor Radhakamal Mukerjee Memorial Lecture was delivered by Prof. R.K Jain, Formerly Professor of Sociology, Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi on the topic Universalism and Ecology: Anthropological Bridge between Radhakamal Mukerjee’s Key Concepts. In his address Prof. Jain stressed on the point that Radhakamal Mukerjee’s sociology in encounter with the contemporary new anthropology reveals facets of an incipient vision that is for us neither nostalgic nor revanchist but genuinely global. The session was chaired by Prof. Rajesh Mishra, Formerly Professor of Sociology, University of Lucknow. This memorial lecture is hosted by the PROFESSOR RADHA KAMAL MUKERJEE ENDOWMENT FUND of the Indian Sociological Society and is an annual feature of the All India Sociological Conference.

There was also a poster presentation which was organized for the first time in an All India Sociological Conference. The posters were judged by two senior faculty and the best poster was awarded a prize, which was sponsored by Samruddhi Foundation, Mysore.

The day concluded with a cultural programmed presented by 3 renowned folk artiste groups from Mysore and Mandya districts and a Bhartanatyam dance recital by Shiva Kumar from Bellary.

On the second day of the conference, i.e. the 28th of December the Professor M.N. Srinivas Memorial Lecture, another annual feature of an All India Sociological Conference was delivered by Prof. N. Jayaram, Visiting Professor, National Law School of India University, Bengaluru on the topic Sociological Imagination and Literary Sensitivity. The lecture examined the mutual relations between sociological imagination and literary sensitivity. It reflected on the need for and the pathways to cultivating literary sensitivity in the sociological understanding of reality. Prof. M.N. Panini, Formerly Professor of Sociology, Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi was in the chair. The memorial lecture is hosted by the PROFESSOR M. N. SRINIVAS ENDOWMENT FUND of the Indian Sociological Society.

The second plenary session of the conference titled Liberalization, Privatization, Globalization and Marginalization: Revisiting Perspectives was held on day 2. It was chaired by Prof. Anand Kumar, Formerly Professor of Sociology, Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi. Presentations were made by Dr. Abusaleh Shariff, Chief Scholar, US-India Policy Institute, Washington and Prof Sukhant Chaudhury, Professor of Sociology, University of Lucknow. This plenary focused on selected human development dimensions and the rate of poverty change during the last decade; the path of educational transition and human development according to socio-religious categories and on the nature of impact that globalization had on tribal groups, with a special thrust on India’s north-eastern region.

The meeting of the General Body of Indian Sociological Society was held in the evening of day 2 as has been the normal practice in an ISS conference. A meeting of regional Associations followed, in which representatives of regional associations affiliated to ISS met to discuss their current status and future plans.

The third and final day of the Conference (29th December 2018) began with a business meeting of all the research committees. The third plenary session of the conference titled Changing Socio-Political-Economic-Cultural Landscape of Karnataka: Representations from the Margins was held immediately after. It is the tradition in ISS to dedicate one plenary to the state in which the conference is being held. The plenary was chaired by Prof. V.K. Natraj, Formerly Director, Madras Institute of Development Studies, Chennai and Institute of Development Studies and University of Mysore. Presentations were made by Prof Jogan Shankar, Vice Chancellor, Kuvempu University, Shimoga and Prof. Sandeep Sastri, Pro-Vice Chancellor, Jain University, Bengaluru. The session brought out the main points of dominant discourses on centre-periphery concepts; stressed the need for sociologists to revisit the period dominated by people’s movements to understand the dynamics of the representation of the margins and assessed the ‘Ahinda’ politics in Karnataka vis-à-vis the margins question and the role of electoral politics.
The conference deliberations concluded with a session in which all the RC conveners gave a brief presentation on activities of their respective RCs during the conference. The President, Prof. R. Indira in her concluding remarks thanked all those who had made the Conference a memorable event.

The 44th conference saw the participation of nearly 1000 ‘sociology enthusiasts’, which included faculty, research scholars and students from different parts of the country. Nearly every state in country was represented in the participant profile. There were a few international delegates as well. One of the highlights of the event was the increase in the number of younger faculty, students and research fellows.

We express our gratitude to the Bishop of Mysore, Rev. Dr. K.A William whose all-round support for the event was its hallmark. From opening up the campus and its infrastructural facilities, to placing the institutions of the Dioceses of Mysore for providing accommodation to participants or sparing the services of its human resource the Bishop’s involvement with the Conference was a great source of strength. We are grateful to Dr. Ruth Shanta Kumari, Principal; Rev. Dr. Bernard Prakash Barnis, Rector and Prof. Sanjay Nair, Vice-Principal of St.Philomena’s College for their cooperation and support.

We place on record our thanks to Prof. G. Hemantha Kumar, Vice Chancellor of the University of Mysore for his warm hearted support for the conference and Dr. Bindeshwar Pathak of Sulabh International Social Service Organization. Our thanks are due to Karnataka Sociology Association; Alumni Association of the Sociology Students of the University of Mysore; Samruddhi Foundation & Ranga Rao and Sons, Mysuru; President, Secretary, Treasurer & Members of the Managing Committee of ISS; Conveners of all RCs; teaching and administrative staff & students of St. Philomena’s College; heads of all hostels affiliated to the Dioceses of Mysore, colleagues from Departments of Sociology in colleges and sister universities who participated in the event and lent their support in manifold ways; Ms. Boinu Vaiphei and Mr. Amrinder of the ISS office at New Delhi; media friends; delegates and guests who came from different parts of the country to be with us and philanthropists from Mysore and everyone who stood with us in making this event a memorable one. Every participant who required accommodation was provided with it and every one left with a great sense of satisfaction.

RESEARCH COMMITTEE REPORTS

RESEARCH COMMITTEE – 01

History of Sociology
44th All India Sociological Conference, Mysuru.
27-29 December 2018

RC 01 accepted 11 abstracts but 10 members presented their papers. Room No.21 was allotted for RC- 01 technical sessions.

The first technical session was scheduled on 27 Dec 2018 from 03:15-04:45 pm. The theme of the session was: Theories and methods to understand contemporary society. Convener Dr. Manoj Chhaparia welcomed the members and introduced the chair person. This session was chaired by Prof. Ray Bromley, University of Albany, State University of New York and Dr. Manish Mathur as discussant. There was special lecture addressed by Prof. M.N.Panini, former HOD, Centre for the studies for social system, J.N.U on Sociology and India’s modernity: Dilemmas of our time. He emphasized on the dilemmas of modernity and the role of electronic media by exploring the differences between twitter and facebook. In this session two papers were presented. First paper was by Prof. Annant Kumar Giri on Contemporary Contributions to critiques of political economy and alternative global futures; Rethinking and transforming political economy, moral economy, moral sociology and spiritual ecology and the calling of integral planetary transformations.

The second paper presented was of Dr. Subhasis Sahoo on The Construction of scientific public sphere in non western context; Epistemologies and empirical evidences from post colonial India.

After these presentations the session was opened for discussion by Dr. Manish Mathur. Chairperson Prof. Bromley shared his important remarks on the presentations. This session was ended by vote of thanks to the chairperson by convener.

On 28th Dec 2018, we had the second technical session which was scheduled from 09:00-11:00 am. The theme of this session was Sociology in India: From emergence to post independent orientation. This session was chaired by Prof. Rajesh Mishra, former HOD Department of Sociology, University of Lucknow & former secretary ISS. Prof. Radha kamal Mukherjee was addressed by Dr. D.R.Sahu, HOD Department of Sociology, University of Lucknow. The speaker emphasized on the role of Lucknow tradition of Sociology by the contribution given by Radha kamal Mukherjee and D.P.Mukherji in institution building as well as the development of social science in general and sociology in particular.

There were three paper presented in this session. The first presentation was by Prof. Ray Bromley, on who is India’s first sociologist? Musings on the nature of sociology and the subjects of sociological research. He was critical about the scholar not having the background of sociology and only writing on social issues make their claim as sociologist. He was of the view that the writings of Dadabhai Naoroji, R.C.Dutta and M.G.Ranade on contemporary social issues are useful contribution to understand Indian society in colonial period, presents deep insight. The second paper was presented by Prof. Sangeeta Pandey from Gorakhpur University on Green social theory: A new paradigm. She emphasized on the need to develop a new paradigm for social ecology by evaluating the existing one. The third paper was presented by Dr. Manish Mathur on Sociology and Indian Nationalism in colonial period. He tried to explore the inter relation between the Indian nationalism and the emergence and role of sociology in colonial period.

As discussant Prof. Annant Giri opened the session for discussion. Various members participated in this discussion session. Chairperson Prof. Rajesh Mishra presented his remarks on all presentations as well as throwing light on Lucknow tradition of sociology. Finally, Ms. S. Lalitha Nagesvari, Program Manager, gave a talk on ‘Fulbright-Nehru and other Fulbright fellowship opportunities’ for faculty and research scholars & PG students.

The third technical session was scheduled from 01:40- 03:10 pm. The theme of this session was searching new rules of Sociological Methods. This session was chaired by Prof. M.P.Singh, HOD, Department of Sociology, DDU Gorakhpur University. Three papers were presented in this session. The first presentation was by Dr.Sital Mohanti from Rajasthan on Enchantment and management of unpredictability: Religion and fertility among women in east India. The second presentation as by Dr. Manoj Chhaparia on A.K.Saran: Pioneers of Sociology at University of Lucknow. He discussed Saran’s deep distrust of positivism and interest in traditional knowledge. In this way Saran remains quite distinct from his both teachers Radhakamal Mukherjee and D.P.Mukherji. While both D.P. and R.K. have brahminical texts in mind when they write of tradition in the contest of the sociology in India. Saran prefers a comparative cross cultural view. The third paper was of Dr. Hemant Singh on Methodological orientations to study Indian society.

As discussant Dr. Jaya Pandey opened the session for discussion. Chair Prof. M.P.Singh shared his concluding remarks on all presentations at the end.

Fourth technical session was scheduled from 05:15-06:15pm. The theme of this session was Crises and content in Indian sociology. This session was chaired by Prof. Manish Verma, BBAU, (Central University), Lucknow.

Two papers were presented in this session. The first paper was presented by Prof. Gayatri Bhattacharya, University of Calcutta; on A new look at the development of Indian Sociology. The second paper was presented by Mr. Shyam from Awadh University, Faizabad on M.N.Srinivas and tradition of field work in India.

As discussant Dr. Sital Mohanti requested the delegates for open discussion. Chair Prof. Manish Verma gave his concluding remarks on all presentations. Convener Manoj Chhaparia gave vote of thanks to chair and all paper presenters as well as delegates and requested all RC members to ensure their presence in the business meeting scheduled at 6.30 pm at the same venue.

Business Meeting

Upon request from many members of RC-04, our “Business Meeting” was preponed to 28th December at 6 p.m in which twelve members attended. Prof. Ajailiu Niumai welcomed the members and highlighted the slow growth of RC-04 since its inception. She also acknowledged the contributions of former RC-04 Convenors and active members. She encouraged the existing members to mobilise young scholars and faculty to become a member of RC-04 and actively participate in RC’s programmes in the future. She highlighted about the upcoming newsletter, membership details and financial aspects.

Agenda Item 1: Mid-Term Conference in 2019

We propose to organize a mid-term conference of RC-04 around November 2019. Dr. Anirban Mukherjee, Assistant Professor of Sociology, Rajiv Gandhi Institute of Petroleum Technology (RGIPT), Jais, Uttar Pradesh volunteered to be the Convenor.

Agenda Item 2: Financial issues

We decided to utilise the total fund of Rs. 4,310/- (which the former Treasurer & current Co-Convenor of RC-04 Dr. Muneer Illath handed it to the Convenor on 11th August 2018) during the mid-term conference in 2019.

Agenda Item 3: RC-04 Newsletter

We resolved that newsletter of RC-04 will be circulated on or before 31st January 2019 by its editor Dr. Nupur Pattanaik.

The Business Meeting ended with the distribution of certificates to the paper presenters and a vote of thanks.

Prof. Ajailiu Niumai, Convenor.
RESEARCH COMMITTEE – 05

Sociology of Education

44th All India Sociological Conference St. Philomena’s College Mysuru
27-29 December, 2018.

For 44th All India Sociological Conference, Mysuru, RC- 05, Sociology of Education, received fifty three abstracts. After rigorous assessment, a total of forty three abstracts were selected for presentation. Since RC-05 was rechristened to Sociology of Education from Education and Society during last AISC, Lucknow, 2017 some of the abstracts were not in tuned with the new nomenclature but they were incorporated after needful changes from the contributors. Analysis of abstracts reveals that RC-05 is being represented by eleven states, many Central, State and Private universities as well as Government and semi-Government colleges. Gender based evaluation discloses towards a fair justice situation as more than fifty five percent abstracts was contributed from women scholars. Broader themes covered were traditional as well as contemporary ones like perspectives on Sociology of Education; education Policy; Right to Education; Marginalisation; Social Justice; Higher Education; Exclusion and inclusion; School Ethnography; Empowerment of Marginalised etc.

During three day academic deliberations RC-05 conducted four regular sessions, two parallel sessions and one business meeting. A total of thirty nine papers were presented over six sessions chaired and co-chaired by the eminent scholars, academicians and MC members of Indian Sociological Society. Each session was quite enriching and vibrant as young scholars participated in great way asking questions, discussing research issues and citing latest literature and writings. The very first session was interesting as the Convener himself presented a brief history of emergence of Sociology of Education, its subject matter, theoretical perspectives and latest development at the policy level in various countries and India as well.

RC 05 conducted its business meeting on three specific agenda and some resolutions were taken by the members. On academic front, it has been resolved to organise mid-term Seminar and publication of an edited book before the next AISC. A committee regarding the specific goals and set target has already been formed comprising of three members each. The agenda of opening bank account in the name of RC-05 from the side of Indian Sociological Society was discussed. It was resolved that ISS may prioritise this issue to get an account opened as soon as possible. The third agenda was related to providing Travelling Allowance to the Convener by Indian Sociological Society. It was unanimously resolved to provide TA (by air-economy class or by rail- second AC) to the Convener RC-05 by Indian Sociological Society once in a year for attending All India Sociological Conference only. This expenditure may be borne out of RC membership fee which has already been deposited in ISS account and lying unutilized since many years. It was also resolved that in future if a separate account is being opened in the name of RC-05, the Convener is empowered to bear expenditure from his/her own account and the matter will be reported to the Treasurer, Indian Sociological Society for information only.
Precisely, it may be concluded that RC 05 successfully conducted its academic and business activities which provided a common platform for scholars, academicians, young researchers and students to share their experiences in a professional way at 44th All India Sociological Conference, Mysuru.

RESEARCH COMMITTEE – 06

Sociology of Religion
44th All India Sociological Conference St. Philomena’s College Mysuru
27-29 December, 2018.

In the 44th AISC at Mysuru, Research Committee 06 (Sociology of Religion) attracted submission of about twenty abstracts out of which eighteen abstracts were accepted for presentation. During 27-29th December 2018, fifteen of the accepted papers were actually read and deliberated upon, in three RC technical sessions, by members present. Two participants, at the last moment had to cancel their trip to Mysuru, though they sent their papers and other technical details for consideration. There were two young members who participated in the deliberations though did not present any paper. The sessions were chaired by the Convener. Members came from all over the country, spanning from Punjab in the West, Delhi in the North, Manipur in the East, and Malabar in the South.

All the papers presented in the RC 06 Sessions truly conformed to the broad theme of the conference, therefore, the deliberations centred mostly on the groups in the margins of the society. The presentation of the papers were divided into three themes on the basis of their issues involved, or pertaining to a religious tradition in a particular region or pertaining to a particular religious group or a sub-division in a religious group. One paper though was of theoretical nature, attempting to revisit the theoretical position of Andre Beteille in understanding religion in contemporary India.

The first theme on which the deliberations were held was with regard to the changes in the public sphere, education system, organizational pattern, reformations among the Muslims of South India. The second theme that the Research Committee deliberated about were about the marginal traditions among the Namasudras, Rajbanshis, Bauls, and low caste groups in Purulia, all from West Bengal. The third theme was more dynamic in nature where different religious confluences were considered among groups from the region of Assam, Manipur, and among the Sadhus. Involved discussions among members on each presentation came up with academic input that would improve upon the quality of research work being undertaken by the member-scholars in the broad field of Sociology of Religion.
The members of the RC-06 also held a brief session with Ms. Lalitha of USIEF, Southern Zone Office, for the different kinds of offer being made by Fullbright-Nehru Fellowships, 2019-20. No other special programmes were organized by Research Committee 06 in this conference.

In the business meeting of the Research Committee 06, seventeen members were present. The Report by the Convener sent to the Committee on Research Committees (ISS) was read, found to be satisfactory, and was unanimously approved and confirmed. The members unanimously resolved that the Bank Account of the Research Committee 06 be immediately opened in a nationalized bank, and the Convener was requested to initiate the process in Kolkata, in his place of residence, at present. The members authorized the Convener (Ramanuj Ganguly) and one ISS Life Member (Ujjal Kumar Das) to be the joint signatory to operate the said bank account. The Convener was requested to take necessary action with intimation and approval of the President, ISS. Members expressed satisfaction over the functioning of the Research Committee 06. It was decided to explore possibilities of organizing seminars in association with the institutions where the members are located for Research Committee 06 in the year 2019.

Since the Convener for Research Committee 06 was elected for a term of two years in 2017, therefore there was no change in convenership, and Prof. Ramanuj Ganguly continues to be the Convener of Research Committee 06 for another year.

RESEARCH COMMITTEE – 07

(Adivasi and Tribal Studies)
44th All India Sociological Conference St. Philomena’s College Mysuru
27-29 December, 2018.

A total of 36 papers were presented in three different sessions on diverse sub-themes. Earlier the papers were classified in six sessions including the parallel sessions. But during the conference the sessions were merged and three long sessions were organized to incorporate all the thirty six papers.

The sub-themes on which the papers were presented are as follows:

- Women and Tribal Society
- Education and Tribal Society
- Health Issues and the Tribal society
- Socio-cultural Issues and tribal society
- Occupational opportunity and tribal Society
Policy and Legal Frame with reference to Tribal Society

The tribal communities from across India were represented in the papers presented in the sessions. The discussions incorporated the Nyishi tribe of Arunchal Pradesh, Tharu tribe from U.P, Irula tribe from Kerala, Velip tribe of Goa, Sauria-Paharias from Jharkhand, Irular tribe Tamil Nadu and number of other tribal communities. The issues of women, education, health, occupation were the main domains of discussion. The recent policy frames and legal enactments were also discussed during the sessions.

Two special lectures were also organized, one by Prof. Sukant Chaudhury, Department of Sociology on “Tribes, Ethnicity and Post-Modernism” and second by Prof. Francis Lobo, Edith Cowan University, Perth, Western Australia on “Indigenous Leisure in Australia”. Prof. Chaudhury emphasized upon the issue of identity with reference to ethnicity and postmodernism; the lecture was very analytical and comprehensive. Prof. Lobo presented a very different dimension of the indigenous people in Australia and he emphasized upon the way indigenous leisure in Australia is promoted by the government is beneficial for the indigenous people. This is also helpful in preserving and protecting the cultural frame of the indigenous people.

Future Action Plan

In the year 2019, RC-07 proposes a workshop on Research Methodology on Tribal Issues for the Research Scholars working on tribal issues.

RC-07 also proposes to conduct a seminar in collaboration with Ethnographic and Folk Culture Society (EFCS) Lucknow.

Sociology of Health, Ageing & Well Being
44th All India Sociological Conference St. Philomena’s College Mysuru
27-29 December, 2018.

RC 12 had received 66 abstracts during the 44th AISC. These abstracts were divided in to 4 sessions spread over 2 days of the conference. These sessions were as follows:

Sessions – 1 Women & Child Health: In this session a total of 18 papers were read and were well discussed by the 48 participated ISS delegates. In this seidion it emerged that the decision making for health seeking is the key to women’s health and distance of the health facility is the main concerned today.

Session – 2 Rural Health & Demographic structure today
In this session a total of 12 papers were read and well discussed by the 32 participated ISS delegates. In this session it emerged that the Rural-Urban migration and its consequences to health is the important concern today. Here also decision making for health seeking and wage labourer occupation are the key to women’s health. Here distance of the health facility is not the concern.

Session – 3 Health & Nutrition
In this session a total of 19 papers were read and were well discussed by the 48 participated ISS delegate. In this session it emerged that the Health of the Mother and Child depends on several factors of affordability.
Even the rural community grows vitamin and minerals rich farming; but they sell it for a livelihood. Hence interventions should be aimed to the community to consume the produce and alternative income sources may be provided to look after this issue.

Session – 4 Ageing, Health & Well Being
In this session a total of 17 papers were read and well discussed by the 28 participated ISS delegates. In this session all other issues and papers related to health were discussed; it emerged that Aging, Health & well being concept is of more relevance as today.
The Health of Mother, Child & Adolescents depends on several factors. These are clear path of economic affordability and distribution of the yield may be available but still it needs more functional modulation for community participation in this health and other welfare programme, to make a dent.

Business Meeting
The Business Meeting of RC 12 was held on the 29-12-2018 and 21 members were present. New Office bearers elected were as follows;

RESEARCH COMMITTEE – 14

Globalization and Culture
44th All India Sociological Conference St. Philomena’s College Mysuru
27-29 December, 2018.

Annual Report
(January-December 2018)

As a result of rationalization the nomenclature of RC14 was changed from Culture and Communication to Globalization and Culture. The Research Committee holds an account in Union Bank of India, Surat in the name of Convenor, RC 14 Culture and Communication opened and operated by Prof. Parvez A. Abbasi. With the change in the nomenclature and change of the convenor it was decided that the 70% of the 2017 RC membership fee be deposited in the Union Bank of India account and the total amount be transferred in the new account of RC with new nomenclature. However, it could not be done as the amount was not released to earlier convenor by the ISS. It has hampered the activities of the RC in the calendar year 2018 as no funds were available to the new Convenor.

As far as the organization of the sessions in 44th AISC is concerned, an all 28 abstracts were received. These papers were scheduled in 4 sessions as per the time allotted to the RC. In the last session, Business Meeting was also scheduled. In four sessions, 17 papers were presented by the members on various themes related to globalization and culture. The quality of the most of the papers was good and the presenters were asked to submit full paper within a period of one month. Some of them have already submitted their papers and RC may take a decision for the publication of the papers in a suitable form. The sessions were chaired by Prof. B. Mohan Kumar and Prof. V. P. Singh.

The Business Meeting of the RC held on 28th December 2018 in the last session. Following members were present: 1. Prof. V. P. Singh (LMI 1019), Dr. Roopa Rani T. S. (LMI 3306), SaritaChetri (LMI 4355), Anandita Borah (LMI 4617), Vinay Singh Chauhan(O/SM-01442017), Dr. Shruti Singh (LMI 2312), Aratrika Bhattacharya (LMI 4552), R. SudermathikananO/SM-08812018), Silas Gangmei(O/SM-07932018), Ram Mohan Chetta(O/SM-0273207), Dr. AmitBhatti, Dr. Vilok Singh (LMI 3552), Dr. SuparnaDhar(O/SM-M-08152018). Following resolutions were passed unanimously by the house: 1. RC 14 be collaborate with Global Research and Educational Foundation India (GREFI) to organize an International Conference on Globalization, Communication and Cultural Change on 4-6 November 2019 in NCR. 2. Efforts should be made to increase the membership of the RC. 3. The meeting ended with vote of thanks from the chair.

RESEARCH COMMITTEE – 16

Work, Labour and Organisation
44th All India Sociological Conference St. Philomena’s College Mysuru
27-29 December, 2018.

The RC-16 had three Research committee sessions during 44th AISC at St. Philomena’s College, Mysuru, Karnataka. Out of the total 18 abstracts received this year for the presentation, only 12 presentations were delivered pertaining to the issues such as the migrant laborers, unorganized workers, informal sector, welfare and development of the new working class, lock-outs, waste pickers and hawkers, perfume industry workers and loco-pilots.

Presentations were followed by the lively discussion and a series of questions and answers. The second session had a special lecture on the topic, “Professor N.R. Sheth and Industrial Sociology in India” by Dr. M.T. Joseph. The lecture was presided over by Professor S.K. Chaudhary, Lucknow University. The RC-16 has been reconstituted and renamed as ‘Work, Labour and Organisation’. This was the first session of the RC-16 under the new name. In the Business meeting, the RC members unanimously appointed a new managing committee for the term 2018-2020.

The committee includes:
RESEARCH COMMITTEE – 17

Sociology of Social Movements
44th All India Sociological Conference St. Philomena’s College Mysuru
27-29 December, 2018.

Sociology of Social Movements had 4 sessions and 1 Business Session. The RC received 21 abstracts for presentation in the different sessions. It also received 4 abstracts for Panel Discussion. The abstracts were selected by the Academic Advisory Committee of the RC. 3 presenters were absent.

The RC, according to the convention, devotes the First academic session to the A.R. Desai Memorial Lecture. The Lecture was initiated by the immediately preceding Convener, Professor D.R. Sahu of the University of Lucknow and currently, the Secretary, the Indian Sociological Society. The RC feels proud to host the seventh Lecture in this series.

There came a suggestion from Mr. Rohit Jain, a senior member of the RC, to hold a Panel Discussion. Left with only two academic sessions for presentation of the abstracts, the Convener in consultation with the co-Convener, Treasurer and Executive Members decided to give the two Business Sessions fully to the discussion of the papers submitted by the young scholars. The senior members spoke in the panel discussion.

This year, the A.R. Desai Memorial Lecture was given by Manish Thakur, Professor of Public Policy and Management Group, I.I.M., Kolkata. He spoke on Social Movement Studies in India: the State-of-the Art. Professor Thakur, while referring to the various movement studies conducted in India, lamented over the point of disconnect between movements and public policy. He further pointed out that studies on movement have not been able to bridge the gap between social structure and culture. Thakur insisted on theoretical and methodological rigour in conducting such studies. And he said that a line of distinction be made between movement on the one hand and terms like agitation or campaign, on the other. Lastly, he called for the development of a South-Asian perspective in studies of social movements.

The session was chaired by Professor R. Indira, President, All-India Sociological Society. And the vote of thanks was given by Professor D.R. Sahu, Secretary, All-India Sociological Society who appreciated the RC for maintaining the legacy of holding the A.R. Desai Memorial Lecture successfully for the seventh year.

The third session of the RC was devoted to a Panel Discussion – Dialectics of Social Movements: Understanding the Dynamics of People’s Movement & the State’s Response. There were five discussants in this Panel. While D.R. Sahu and Biswajit Ghosh took up the Eastern region of India as their points of discussion, Rohit Jain talked about different peoples’ movement all over India and the state’s response to them. Shruti Tambe and Anant Giri highlighted some theoretical issues.

Sociology of Social Movements indicates change in social relationships but likes to uphold the teacher-disciple parampara. And the session was chaired by Professor Paramjit Singh Judge, one of the architects of this RC. Professor Satish Sharma also graced this session of the RC. Professor M.N. Karna, another architect of this RC was present during the session.

The different papers presented in the other two sessions of the Conference can be thematically distributed under Movement of the transgender, Anti-Begari movement, Disability movement, Women’s movement, Movement against commodification of water, Political mobilization, Anti-dam movement in Arunachal Pradesh and Co-operative movement. The RC had one paper on Tablighi Movement of Maulana Ilyas.

The RC has retained its pan-Indian character and has received members from Poodoochery, Kashmir, Aligarh and Tamil Nadu.

The RC feels proud of the achievements of its 3 members at the World Congress of Sociology, 2018, at Toronto – Professor D.R. Sahu. Professor Shruti Tambe who were elected Governing Body Members in RC 47 and RC 48 in Social Movement. Dr. Rohit Jain had also participated in a Round Table Discussion on Social Movement at Toronto.

The RC at its Business Meeting had three agenda:

a) To publish a volume with the A.R. Desai Memorial Lectures delivered so far. The Volume also intends to include a few important articles presented in this RC at the AISC Conferences between 2012 and 2018;

b) To refurbish the already existing WhatsApp Group of RC 17 on Sociology of Social Movements. All members are requested to exchange academic information related to movement on this Group and remain connected with one another; and

c) To start a Newsletter for this RC.

The term of the present convener will end in December 2019.
RESEARCH COMMITTEE – 18

Social Demography
44th All India Sociological Conference St. Philomena’s College Mysuru
27-29 December, 2018.

This RC was born last year in the process of rationalization by the previous ISS team and hence it is only one year old. I was given the responsibility of steering it by the ex-President, Prof. Sujata Patel.

The RC received 08 abstracts in all and out of that 07 were selected for presentation. One abstract was rejected on technical ground. The 07 presentation was distributed over two sessions. Major themes covered in the presentation included Global Scenario of the Centenarians, Trend of Child-Sex Ratio, Population and Intergenerational interaction, Population Dynamics, Social Determinants of Fertility in India. The session witnessed vibrant interaction in terms of questions, feedback and suggestions.

In the second session Prof. S. Gurusamy delivered an impressive lecture on Population and development in India. The sessions were chaired by Dr. Udai Bhan Singh. The Convener and Dr. Vinod Chandra.

The RC also had its business meeting in the third session. Dr. Vinod Chandra, Associate Professor and Head, Department of Sociology, JNPG College, Lucknow was unanimously elected as the new Convener of RC 18. Prof. Mamta Patel was elected as the Co-Convener, Dr. Niranjan Kumar Singh was given the responsibility of Secretary and Dr. Pawan Kumar was given the post of Treasurer for the RC.

RC members also express their gratitude towards the organizing team for the nice arrangements and comfortable stay in Mysuru.

RESEARCH COMMITTEE – 19

Urban Studies
44th All India Sociological Conference St. Philomena’s College Mysuru
27-29 December, 2018.

Report on the Sessions

Overall 15 papers were selected for presentations, out of which 12 were presented during the course of the conference.
The sessions debated the issues of urban marginality through various thematic areas viz. contemporary urban culture; politics of urban public space; neoliberal urban development; and housing for urban poor and smart city.

The first session explored the theme of contemporary urban culture and transformation of public spaces. The session was chaired by Prof. M. N. Panini.

1) Usha Narasimhan looked at the construction of differential urban spaces through the fashion practices in three characteristically distinct urban spaces such as South Delhi Malls, Khan Market and the Chandni Chowk. Her work explored how fashion, produced and reproduced by popular culture, creates the ‘urban look’ of the city. Her ethnographic work provided insights on how marginal people from the lower socio-economic classes try to attain the same look of branded elite spaces like South Delhi with the help of more accessible and economical spaces such as Old Delhi providing cheaper copies of it.

2) The city of Delhi and its lifestyles were further explored by Sharmishtha through the notions of health and wellness which she had studied by looking at spas and wellness centres in Delhi. Sharmishtha showed how the notions of health and wellness are manufactured amongst the elite and upwardly mobile urban middle class through the creation of a crisis. Her premise held that the neoliberal market forces which have created a consumerist society, package the notions of health and well-being, creating dominant images of the mind, body and space, socio-culturally marginalising those who cannot access or afford the same.

3) The next presenter, Shakti Shukla captured how Delhi’s heritage walks which began as a means of spreading awareness of conservation have been refashioned and curated for a diverse set of local middle class consumers in Delhi. This in effect has redefined popular culture as a new form of leisure and entertainment based on the experience economy. The key issues explored by Shakti were lack of accessibility and affordability of this emerging form of leisure, by the poor and urban marginals. She showed how what started as spreading awareness towards heritage conservation is now becoming a part of the leisure business accessible for a price.

4) The re-imagination of Indian classical music in public and private spheres of the city was the subject of Shankarjyoti Saikia’s presentation. He showed how Indian classical music was being renegotiated to make its way back into urban public life, largely through neoliberal processes. With decreasing demand for pure Indian classical music in public and private spaces, the practitioners of the art form are trying to bring it back to the fore with the help of fusion with Western artists. His study tried to trace the changing tastes and preference of the different urban classes with the advent of quick, easy and cheap alternatives to classical music.

5) Using the spaces of the Delhi Metro Railway Corporation, Ashwarya Chowdhary showed how predictability and sociability determine the publicness of a space. She showed that with rigorous surveillance and heightened visibility, the Delhi Metro transit corridors cease to be public spaces, as safety eclipsed sociability. This stemmed from a heightened concern with security and creation of a safe space. In effect however, the DMRC corridor became a pseudo-public space of mere transit, penalizing anyone who tried to use it otherwise.

6) In another presentation, while discussing public spaces, Alfiya K. Jose showcased her work on JantarMantar, Delhi, as a space of protest which despite being planned and controlled, gained its own lived identity through its usage by occupants. Alfiya presented that while JantarMantar was a symbolic space of democracy, being the official space designated for protest in Delhi, the state’s control over this space of protest was subverted by its usage and occupation by the protesters. Once permitted to protest, JantarMantar also became a space of transformation and identity assertion of people on the margins of urban life.

In the discussion that ensued, Professor Panini addressed the session. He was highly appreciative of the quality of the papers and highlighted how papers contributed to building up the lacuna of the discourse on urban cultural transformations and the way these implicated the poor. The session saw a very vibrant discussion around the emerging elite cultures in the city that led to new forms of marginality. At the same time, it also emerged during the discussion that the marginalised classes were not untouched by the neoliberal consumerist culture and negotiated in their own ways to access it. In rethinking margins, ideas of marginality itself were revisited in this session through the lens of neoliberal urbanism.

Our second session on Neoliberal Urban Development was chaired by Prof. N. Jayaram.

1) Radha M.S. presented the macro challenges and advantages of globalisation in rural and urban development of Karnataka. She illustrated the implications of neoliberal development for women, the impact of development on environment and the question of urban poverty.

2) Through her paper on slum rehabilitation, Ushosee Pal captured how conflicting stakeholders in urban redevelopment, simultaneously created vulnerability and opportunism amongst the heterogeneous urban poor. Through her case study of in-situ redevelopment of Kathputli Colony, a slum in Delhi, she shared how the neoliberal state and the patronage dependent civil society were both, equally, detrimental to participatory development.

3) Thereafter, through his fieldwork on housing projects in Patna, our next presenter, Yashwant Singh, illustrated the structural biases in neoliberal development with respect to marginalized classes. Yashwant spoke of how the expansion of the city through acquisition of rural agricultural land goes through a process of institutionalised coercion of the neoliberal state. This can be seen in processes of land acquisition for high rise housing apartments and gated communities in the city of Patna.

4) Our final presenter for the session, Akhilesh Roshan, highlighted the relationship between legal entitlement to land and urban citizenship rights from the perspective of a slum in Delhi. In his work on two slums in Delhi, Akhilesh explored the right to the city from the perspective of urban political economy. He traced the change in the nature of the urban citizenship rights and their assertion from the narratives of old residents of these slums. His work prompted a discussion on the right of the urban poor to live with respect and dignity in the city.

The discussion following the session was enriched with the insights of Professor Jayaram who held that marginalisation is not equal to helplessness. The vulnerability discussed in most papers is accompanied by everyday negotiations in the context of marginality. The discussion showed the need for a nuanced understanding of vulnerability of the marginalised from the vantage point of negotiation, subversion and resistance. He also spoke about the way the papers could be enhanced for publication. He gave very useful tips to the members on the art of presentation and writing for research and academic purposes by citing examples from the papers presented. This gesture was much appreciated by all members.

In the next session, there were no presenters and some members worked on the certificates, Session reports etc.

The final session on the morning of 28th December, explored the themes of Smart City and Housing and was chaired by Dr Kulwinder Kaur.

1) By drawing a comparative study on the implementation of the Smart City models in the cities of Pune and Aurangabad, Prof. Shruti Tambe’s paper showed that the narrative of the Smart City adopted and implemented was not commensurate with the needs and aspirations of all the city dwellers. The communication technology and integration oriented policies of the Smart City project catered largely to the aspirations of the middle and upper classes whose interests and suggestions were taken into consideration during the planning process. Shruti argued that the effectiveness of the Smart City activities undertaken by these cities has been questionable especially in terms of sustainability and participation of the grassroots.

2) Next, while discussing the processes and outcomes of the marginalization of the urban poor, in terms of housing, Mr. Manoj Kumar Teotia, highlighted the socio-cultural, economic, physical and spatial dimensions of marginality in the city of Chandigarh. He concluded that economic marginality seems to be reinforced by social and spatial marginalization. His research provided insights on how marginality has a magnitude to it and can be measured through socio-cultural, economic, physical, political and spatial parameters.

During the discussion, Dr Kaur brought to the fore several issues of conceptual and methodological significance in the study of smartness, and spatial marginality. She also pointed out the need for methodological rigour in ‘measuring’ marginality in urban settings and appreciated Mr Teotia’s use of statistical applications in constructing the index of marginality for the urban poor in Chandigarh. She further highlighted the overlaps and continuities in the Jawaharlal Nehru Urban Renewal Mission and Smart city Mission, as evident from Prof Shruti Tambe’s paper. Prompted by papers, other participants also discussed the notions of planning, smartness and different dimensions of urban marginality.
Finally the session was wrapped up by reinforcing the need to understand the emergence of new forms of marginality in the urban life by integrating the cultural and the structural.

Office-bearers of the newly elected Board of RC19 for the term 2018-20 are given below:

Convener: Dr Kulwinder Kaur
Secretary: Mr Manoj Kumar Teotia
Treasurer: Ms Ushosee Pal

Executive Members:
1. Ms Radha MS
2. Mr Shankarjyoti Saikia
3. Mr Akhilesh Kumar

RESEARCH COMMITTEE – 24

Sociology of Childhood and Youth
44th All India Sociological Conference St. Philomena’s College Mysuru
27-29 December, 2018.

Research Committee 24 on Sociology of Childhood and Youth accepted 20 abstracts that were distributed in 4 academic sessions on 27th and 28th December 2018. There were 15 paper presentations as 5 members were absent.

The first session on 27th December (3:15-4:45 am) titled ‘Life at the Margins’ was chaired by Dr. Piyali Sur, Convener of RC 24, Associate Professor in Sociology, Jadavpur University, Kolkata. Four papers were presented in this session. All the four papers were on how life is experienced living in the margins. There were papers on discrimination of transgender children in schools and within the family, how the existence of Right to Education Act still fails to bring children from economically deprived backgrounds to school, and how obsession with bodies and fair skin create feelings of inferiority among youth who deviate from the ideal type.

The second session on 28th December (9-11 am) titled ‘Marginalization of Children and Youth in Institutions’ was chaired by Prof. Arvinder Ansari Professor, Department of Sociology, Jamia Millia Islamia, New Delhi. Though 9 papers were scheduled for this session, there were only 5 presentations. The papers were on discrimination of Dalit children in schools, the difficulties special needs children face in institutions like schools, hospitals and how government provisions further marginalize them, the issue of forced begging among children and capacity building of girls by their parents.

The third session on 28th December (1:40-3:10 am) titled ‘Capacity Building in Children’ was chaired by Dr. Khwaja Mohd. Ziyauddin Associate Professor, Maulana Azad National Urdu University, Gachibowli, Hyderabad. In this session there were 4 presentations focusing on disciplinary practices of parents in single-child families stalling their creativity, child malnutrition in a marginalized tribal community, the contribution of non-governmental organization in the development of children and study habits of slum children.
The fourth session on 28th (5:15-6:15 PM) titled ‘Youth at the Periphery’ was chaired by Dr. Muneer Illath, Assistant Professor, University of Allahabad. There were two presentations on youth addiction and youth responsibility.

Research Committee 24 (Sociology of Childhood and Youth) with department of sociology, Jadavpur University organized a learning event with Know Violence in Childhood- an independent global learning initiative on November 19, 2018 at Jadavpur University, Kolkata. This unique Learning Event disseminated and discussed Know Violence’s Global Report 2017 Ending Violence in Childhood. The report documents the scale of violence experienced by millions of the world’s children in their everyday lives and relationships, in their homes, schools and communities. The Report is a culmination of almost three years of work by academics and practitioners from different disciplines and sectors working together to examine existing data, and commissioning new research on the causes and consequences of childhood violence, as well as the evidence on effective strategies for the prevention of violence. The participating experts were Prof. AK.Shivakumar, Global Co-Chair and Dr. Soumya Kapoor Mehta, Senior Research Fellow, Know Violence in Childhood: A Global Learning Initiative, India. The event was chaired by Dr. Manisha Priyam, Associate Professor, National University for Educational Planning and Administration, India. The dissemination of the report was followed by one hour of interaction with experts in the field of sociology, social work and students. The vote of thanks was delivered by Dr.Piyali Sur, Convener of Research Committee 24 and Associate Professor in the department of sociology, Jadavpur University, Kolkata.

RESEARCH COMMITTEE – 27

Sociology of Care
44th All India Sociological Conference St. Philomena’s College Mysuru
27-29 December, 2018.

Sociology of Care has been upgraded from the Adhoc Group: Mother and motherhood. Sociology of Care is an emerging area for its scientific endeavour. Over times, its meaning, scope and contextual application have been changing and suitable approaches for its study are to be developed. As a result, especially in this 21st century, the sociology of care has its wider unearthed fields in our contemporary marketised society. And, it is not a monolithic concept lying with the domain of mother and motherhood. It is a product or a commodity to be purchased from the market.

So, the members of this RC are very happy with the new nomenclature of RC-27 as Sociology of Care.

This year we received 28 abstracts from the scholars, out of which 27 papers have been presented. Scholars from Maharashtra, Andhra Pradesh, Karnataka, WB and other states have actively participated and interacted in four technical sessions.

The RC has organised 4 Special Lectures, which have been delivered by Prof J.J. Kattakayam, Prof B Ghosh, Prof C.K. Manna and Prof H. Rao. I am thankful to all of them.

The Research papers have been thematically categorised as:
1) Theoretical Issues,
2) Care and the Marginals,
3) Care management: Legal and Social Issues,
4) Care-giving and the role of mothers.
The RC, in its Business Meeting, has elected unanimously the office-bearers and the executive committee members for the years 2018-2020.
The RC has already published two edited volumes based on the papers presented in the 41st and 42nd AISCs, titled (1) Motherhood: Demystification and Denouement, and (2) Sociology of Motherhood: Roots and Rejuvenation. The third book with tentative title, Mothers: East and West is under process of publication.
I once again thank to you all and wish you a very happy new year 2019.

Prof Samita Manna
Convenor, RC-27
